OBSERVANCE OF RESURRECTION DAY

Special Services Held in All the Churches of the City.

PROMINENT FEATURE

t Was a Day of Joy and Giadness and General Rejoicing in All of the Churches .- These Were the Key Notes of the Celebrations -- Particulars of the Services in the Different Churches, Morning, Afternoon and Evening.

Despite the cold winds and cloudiness of Saturday and the stormy, dismal days that immediately preceded, yesterday proved to be quite an ideal Easter as far as the weather is con erned. Everybody went to church n the morning or evening, and promenaded between times, so that the day bore in every way a holiday appear-

The crowd that filled the streets alnost all the day was attired in its new spring clothes and was a very intersting crowd to mingle with. The lalies were on dress parade and some of the men, too, were possibly conscious that they were just a trifle attractive. Washington avenue was the favored lace for the promenaders, hundreds soon to behold and to be beholden, The churches, as a general rule, seldom, if indeed ever before put forward such efforts in the way of special Easter services. The larger churches had elaborate musical programmes, prouse decorations and special sermons,

In the evening the sacred cantata, 'The Last Night at Bethany," by Wilams, was sung in the solo quartette and chorus. During the rendition Rev. Dr. Dixon gave brief addresses illustrating some of the topics incidental to the cantata, "Christ at the Heart's Door," "Life's Sunset," "No Waste in Love," "and "Victory Over the Grave" being the themes touched upon. Eight organ numbers by Haydn Evans were attractive numbers of the days music. Very tasteful programmes and printed in four colors, were distributed at each service. They were designed by Pastor Dixon and were unquestionably the neatest thing in the way of an Easter programme that this
